

Seacoast Studios' Directing Intensive for Film & Theatre Artists

Actors are the director's most immediate and compelling tools for telling a story

Graduates of film and theatre programs and many working directors of stage and screen productions continually ask two vitally important questions:

"How do I communicate my vision to my actors?"

"How do I help my actors achieve truthful, authentic performances that tell the story powerfully and memorably?"

Seacoast Studios' Directing Intensive for Film and Theatre Artists is designed specifically to answer those questions.

The program includes:

SCRIPT ANALYSIS • is the script worth producing? • units of communication • characters' intentions and actions • using the language of film and stage

UNIFYING CENTRAL IMAGE • discover and reveal the central image • incorporate in all aspects of production

AUDITIONING • specifics of each role • all aspects of the character • delivering beyond the audition

REHEARSAL STRUCTURE • construct your rehearsal period • rhythm of rehearsals: exploration and solidification • move from rehearsal to performance

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION WITH ACTORS • prepare to work honestly and creatively • create a working atmosphere • communicate your vision • assist actors to jump emotionally and remain safe
